communicated to the various supervising principals and principals of high schools today a collection for the public playgrounds is to be taken in all of the schools of the city Tuesday, June 4. This is the third season that this collection has been taken, but last year it occurred just after the collection had been solicited for the San Francisco sufferers, so that it did not meet with a large response. Every child will be furnished with an envelope which states on it the purposes and reasons for the collection. This envelope is to be returned either empty or with a contribu-

It is believed that money enough may come in through this collection to provide for opening several new playgrounds, and that those which are already equipped can be kept open after school and on Satur-days, in charge of a teacher, during the In some cities all of the playgrounds have been thus equiped through the co-operation of the parents and children in the enterprise. The method has the ad-vantage, it is claimed, of interesting the children in the work in which they primarily interested and enabling the parents who are directly benefited to contribute in small amounts to the support of the movement. PROCEEDINGS AT MEETING OF THE CITY COUNCIL.

Death Due to Fall From a Pole-Burglar Visits Residence of Minister.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 29, 1907. At a meeting of the city council last evening the joint committee on finance and general laws recommended that a bill, presented by Mayor Paff, from a detective agency, for $378.28, for services rendered in investigating the Curtin murder mystery. be paid. The committee members announced that they hoped such an indebtedness would not again be contracted. It was added that the bill was created without authority or precedent, so far as the committee was informed. The action of the mayor was defended by Councilman Williams. Mr. Brill was of the opinion that an attack had been made upon the mayor during his absence, which was denied by Councilman Burke. A motion to non-con-cur in the action of the board of aldermen in adopting the committee's report was

A bill for an increase in the salary of the members of the police force was passed, as was also a bill to increase the public school appropriation.

Mr. Snowden asserted that the city had been done a great injustice by the railways when they removed their freight and passenger stations to Fairfax county, west of this city. Mr. Snowden's bill calls upon the finance and general laws committees to ascertain what legislation, if any, is necessary to have the city represented before the state corporation commission, with a view to obtaining satisfactory transportation

A petition from the paid employes of the fire department asking that a man be employed to relieve the regular men one day out of every eight days and to serve as a general utility man was referred to the finance committee,

The appropriation bill, amounting to $131,-00, which is an increase of $6,000 over that of last year, was read and passed. A resolution was adopted requesting the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon Electric Railway Company to place a special policeman at its depot at the southwest corner

Fatal Fall From Pole.

The remains of Frederick J. Heyer, a cable splicer employed by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, who fell from a pole at the intersection of King and Lee streets about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and who died five minutes later, were this morning, at 11:21 o'clock, sent to Richmond, Va., for burial. The remains were accompanied by Mr. J. P. Whirt, a linesman employed by the ompany. Heyer was standing on a platform around the pole when, it is stated, the plat-form tilted, throwing him to the ground, a distance of about thirty-five feet. By-standers were horrified, and it was thought that he had been instantly killed. A hasty examination proved that the injured man was not dead, although he never regained consciousness, having fallen on his head and crushed his skull. The patient was conveyed to the Alexandria Hospital, where he died.

Heyer was twenty-four years of age and inmarried. He resided with his mother nd several sisters at 510 North 5th street, Richmond. Coroner S. B. Moore issued a certificate of accidental death. An unknown colored man entered the residence of Rev. William J. Morton, rector of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, 407 W. H. HOEKE, yesterday afternoon during the absence of the members of the family and proceeded to ransack the house. The presence of the intruder was discovered by a young white girl about twelve years of age, who is employed at the house. She at once telephoned the bolice station. When the man's esence was discovered he was going through a trunk on the second floor. Later the young girl made an outery with a hope of attracting neighbors. The intruder then slapped her in the face and walked through the front doorway. The girl fur-nished the police with a description of the Memorial day exercises will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the national cemetery, west of this city. The or-ator will be Rev. W. W. Van Arsdale, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church. Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Protestant Episcopal Church, will also participate in the exercises. Several syms will be rendered by a choir of ladies. Mr. W. P. Graves will read Lincoln's Get tysburg address. The graves of soldiers will be decorated with flowers and a minia-ture American flag will be placed on each grave. The members of the local G. A. R. camp will, it is expected, attend in a

ROCKVILLE AND VICINITY. General and Personal News of Montgomery County, Md.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

ROCKVILLE, Md., May 29, 1907. Petitions urging Judge James B. Henderson of the circuit court for this county to refuse to grant a license for pool selling on the races at the approaching county fair are being circulated throughout the county, and are, it is understood, being numerously signed. A similar effort was made to prevent the license being granted last year, but at the time the petitions were

Some of the fair officials are of the opinion that it will have a disastrous effect on the fair | Heirs of Beatty Estate Declare Presbygenerally, but those who are urging action against pool selling assert that it will prove a benefit, as many who for some years past have stayed away from the exhibitions will this year be among the patrons.

A license to marry has been issued by the cierk of the circuit court here to Oscar William Henn of Mallory, N. Y., and Anna Clara Donohoe of Greenville, S. C. Rockville's junior base ball team and the team of Troop F, 13th United States Cavalry, of Fort Myer, Va., crossed bats at the fair grounds here yesterday afternoon and the local boys suffered defeat by the score of 8 to 2 in a seven-inning contest. The soldier boys made eleven hits and three errors, and Rockville seven hits and four errors. Dorcas and McGlynn, for the visitors, and Robertson and Kemp, for Rockville, were the batteries. The trial of the case against Conrac Royer has been set for Thursday of next week. Royer, who is a well-known farmer of Laytonsville district, is under indictment in the circuit court for this county for the alleged poisoning of stock belonging to Oliver G. Henley, a neighbor. The case has aroused widespread interest, and the trial will doubtless attract a large gathering. Royer will be defended by Messrs. Talbott & Talbott, while State's Attorney Robert B. Peter will conduct the prosecution. The case will be tried before Judges Henderson and Motter.

William Lyles and Thomas Anderson, oung colored residents of the Damascus neighborhood, were given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Reading here yes-terday on a charge of shooting craps. There was no evidence to sustain the accu-sation, and the cases were dismissed. Lyles will be given a hearing within a day or two on a charge of assault with intent to kill, it being alleged that he, several days ago, shot Harry Potts, colored, near Burnt Hill, near Laytonsville. Potts is now in a Washington hospital, where he is said to be rapidly Situation in Montgomery County as to Governorship.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

ROCKVILLE, Md., May 29, 1907. It is believed to be almost a certainty that Col. Spencer C. Jones will be indorsed by Montgomery county for the democratic nomination to succeed Gov. Warfield. Whether he will have to fight for control of the county's delegation to the nominating convention is not definitely known, but the indications now are that by the time primary election day rolls around the sentiment in the party against placing any obstacles in the way of his gubernatorial aspirations will be sufficiently strong to deter those who now seem inclined to put up a fight against him.

Col. Jones is the county's only bona fide candidate for the nomination, and his friends assert that he stands a royal chance of becoming his party's standard-bearer, provided he has the backing of his own county. It is said to be a fact that there are a few prominent members of the party in the county who would dislike to see Col. Jones in the gubernatorial chair, and it is equally true that they could induce many others to vote against the colonel could some other reputable citizen of the county be shown to have a chance for the nomination; but it is conceded on all sides that Col. Jones is the county's only guberna-torial possibility this time, hence to con-test with him for the control of the county's delegation would mean a fight in the interest of some outsider, and such a contest, it is thought, could have but one re-sult—an overwhelming victory for the coun-

Some idea as to how the democrats of the county feel on the question of the guber-natorial nomination was gleaned yesterday, when the numerous candidates for the various nominations to be made at the approaching primaries and the politicians principal topic of conversation was the governorship and Montgomery's attitude in regard to the nomination. Among those in town were a number of the more promi-nent members of the faction that gave Col. Jones such a reverse two years ago, when he met defeat at the hands of State Senator Blair Lee in the contest for the senatorial nomination. These gentlemen, almost without exception, declared them-selves in favor of Col. Jones for governor and they did not hesitate to express the opinion that to put up a fight against him would be politics of the very poorest kind. It was also learned that the candidates for nominations, nearly all of whom supported Senator Lee two years ago. are almost to a man opposed to any fight on Col. Jones this time, and it is understood that dozens of the rank and file, who did him on the governorship proposition. Former Sheriff Arthur Williams, Judge Lawrence A. Darby, Walter A. Johnston and Walter C. Carroll, who were among State Senator Lee's most influential lieutenants two years ago, are understood to have come out for Col. Jones, and it was announced this morning that Dr. Edward Wootton of Poolesville, who has for a number of years been one of the recognized leaders of the anti-Jones faction in the county, will offer no opposition to Col. Jones' candidacy. Mr. Robert G. Hilton, chairman of the democratic state central committee for the county, is one of those who have declared war on Col. Jones and his gubernatorial aspirations. It is stated that he sees in Col. Jones' success his official scalp, but when this was brought to the attention of Col. Jones he met it by declaring that he has no desire to select the members of the state central committee and would favor their election by the candidates who are successful at the party primaries in August. This position of Col. Jones, his friends as-sert, disposes of the only reasonable terian Congregation Has No Power to Convey Title.

PROTEST AGAINST CONVERTING

The Commissioners have received a protest from the heirs of Charles A. Beatty, one of the early settler of Georgetown, and at one time among the wealthlest and largest landowners in the District, against the proposed purchase of the old Presbyterian burying ground near 34th and R streets, Georgetown, by the District government for use as a public playground. This protest was filed with the Commissioners by the attorney for the Beatty heirs, and to be considered by the Commissioners at a board conference. This old cemetery comprises a little over three acres, and has been offered to the Commissioners by the Presbyterian congregation in Georgetown, it is alleged, for $30,000. The heirs of Charles Beatty contend that he congregation which has offered to sell the burying ground is without power to convey a title to the land for the reason that the land was donated by Charles Beatty for the use of the congregation as a burying ground, and providing that at any time it should cease to be used as a burying ground it should revert back to the

Another Reason Assigned.

The heirs offer as a second reason upon which to base their objection that the Presbyterian congregation offers to sell the land without any clause which would require the District government, after the purchase, to remove the many bodies that are lying beneath the ground now, or to rebury them somewhere else. The heirs assert that if the property is sold under these conditions and the old cemetery is converted into a playground the grounds will be desecrated owner never intended when he made the lonation. It is also pointed out that the descendants of the dead in the burying ground are scattered about the country, and many not known. Three generations of the Beatty family are buried in the grounds, and the P Street Presbyterian Church of Georgetown claims to hold the title to the ground in question.

The old Presbyterian burying ground, as it has been known for more than a cen-tury, was part of an addition to George-town laid out in 1804 by Beatty and Hawkins, and known as the Beatty and Haw-kins addition. All of that section west of old 32d street, now known as Wisconsin avenue, was embraced in it. Charles A. Beatty dedicated to the use of the Presbyterian congregation, the Lutheran Church, the Calvanists and to the Church of England one lot each of 1,500 feet, to be used as a hurring ground. be used as a burying ground

Other Lots Donated. Mr. Bearty later donated six lots in square 1253, between 33d and 34th and Q and R streets, aggregating about one and one-half acres. These lots were all conveyed to Stephen Bloomer Balch and his associates for the use of the Presbyterian congregation. This cemetery was in use from 1806 to 1885. Many of the most prominent fam-illes of Washing on and Georgetown were interred in the old grounds. In 1895 the grounds were abandoned as a cemetery, and a number of the bodies were removed by descendants, but a large number of the bodies still remain in the grounds. During its day the cemetery was ooked upon as the most select in the Dis-

MOORE'S NATAL DAY.

Carroll Institute.

The 128th anniversary of the natal day of Thomas Moore, Ireland's famous poet, was celebrated last evening at Carroll Institute Hall under the auspices of the choir of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Ancient Order of Hibernians in the District of Columbia. Not in many years, it was declared, has the Moore celebration been more successfully given, both from the standpoint of artistic endeavor on the part of those contributing to the program and a notably large audience, which included practically all the prominent Irish-Americans of Wash-

Following an overture by the orchestra, the ladies' choir contributed two numbers; Prof. William McCarthy gave a Celtic selec-tion on the violin, and a sextet composed of Misses Curtin, Kenny, Walsh, Costello, Robertson and Nellgan sang "Kathleen Mavourneen." Miss May Austin gave a reci-tation, and the only solo contributed to the program was that by Mrs. Nellie B, Kelser, the director of the choir. She sang "'Tis the Last Rose of Summer" with good effect. James A. O'Shea paid a tribute to Thomas Moore. He traced the eventful career of the famous poet, as the son of a Dublin baker and again as the pet of London society, and his life in Bermuda and in this country. Mr. O'Shea gave recitations from some of the poet's more favored works. "Sleep, Gentle Lady," sung by Messrs. Cook, Duffy, Duggan and Gorman, with Cornellus Desmond as accompanist, was not vote for the colonel two years ago, are daily letting him know that they are with much applauded, as was also the last number of the choir, "Killarney." Miss Hilda Wolfstelner was the accompanist. The rogram was followed by dancing. The following executive committee had the celebration in charge: Mrs. Nellie B. Kelser, chairman; Miss Mary Sullivan, district president; Miss Julia Collins, district vice president; Miss Mary J. Moore, district secretary; Mrs. Mary E. Hughes, dis-trict treasurer; Miss Margaret L. Brosnahan, president, No. 1; Miss Kate Horigan, president, No. 2; Miss Catherine Breen, president, No. 3; Miss Celia B. Reagan, president, No. 4; Mrs. A. M. King, president, No. 5; Mrs. Daniel M. Stanton, president, No. 7.

The members of the choir are Margaret L. Brosnahan, Margaret Buckley, Margaret Breen, Catherine Canty, Mary E. Cleary, Nellie Cleary, Julia Collins, Mary Connor, Annie Conroy, Margaret Corcoran, Mary Corridon, Delia Costello, Mary Curtin, Mary Dougherty, Catherine Downing, Hannora Dugan, Mayme Fitzpatrick, Annie Galla-gher, Mrs. Green, Catherine George, Ellzabeth Healy, Annie Hickey, Carrie Kelly, Agnes Kenny, Miss Lynch, Edna McCabe, Pearl McCabe, Marie McEwan, Flora Mcsert, disposes of the only reasonable grounds for opposition to him.

The feeling seems to be growing that the opposition to Col. Jones for governor will peter out before the campaign is very many days older, and that he will be allowed to name the county's delegation to the nominating convention without oppositions.

GENERAL NEWS GATHERED

ON THE RIVER FRONT

Barge No. 9 of the fleet of schooner barges belonging to the Consolidation Coal Company of Baltimore completed loading a cargo of Cumberland coal at the Georgetown coal piers yesterday, and was to have started on her voyage to Boston with her cargo, but the northwest winds had caused such low tides in the river that the tugs could not bring her through the bridge draws. It is stated that there is a shoal lump in the channel through the draw of the new Highway bridge, and not long ago as a schooner laden with coal was being brought through on high water she struck it, and the tugs having her in tow had considerable trouble in getting her afloat. As soon as the water resumes its normal level. which will, it is expected, be this evening, the tug Camilla will start down the river with the barge, which will be taken up the coast by a big ocean going trg.
